WISE AND OTHERWISE.

If we are better than our fathers, and our fathers were better than our grandfathers, and so on back to the days of Plato, how is it that the world is neither better nor worse than Plato described it?

Live in contact with dreams, and you will get something of their charm; live in contact with facts and you will get something of their brutality. I wish I could find a country where the facts were not brutal and dreams not unreal. G.B.S.

DIGGING DEEPER

ACCOMPLISHMENT. Accomplishing; completion; fulfillment; that which completes, or equips thoroughly; that which constitutes an excellence of mind or an elegance of manners, acquired by education; attainment.

SUCCESS. That which comes after; consequence; issue; outcome; favorable termination of anything attempted; attainment of a proposed object; a thing or a person achieving success or favor.

Successful accomplishment then, need not necessarily mean the taking of dollars from the credit of one man and placing them to the credit of another, although an accomplishment of this kind is undoubtedly an actual success. Taking dollars from some people is like taking candy from the baby—absolutely no resistance, while taking dollars from others is like pulling teeth without the aid of an anesthetic, but in either case the man who gets the dollars is the success.

But its a gratifying thought that a man's life may be filled with successful accomplishment even though the dollars he earns—takes in exchange for services rendered, be not more than enough to supply the needs of himself and family comfortably while traveling the journey of life from beginning to end.

Successful accomplishment measured in dollars and cents, constitutes only three per cent of the country's population, which controls 77 per cent of the country's wealth, while the remaining 97 per cent of the population worries along quite comfortably on the remaining 23 per cent of the country's wealth.

There are only five men in the country whose income tax calls for a yearly income of $5,000,000. Financial wiseacres declare these five are of two families only—one in Michigan and one in New York. Five million dollar incomes are not so numerous that it need matter much who are the recipients. The point is, do these people with the $5,000,000 incomes yearly render a service to humanity the equal, comparatively, of those whose incomes are but a thousand dollars a year or there about? One man whose income is $5,000,000 a year should render a service to humanity equal to five thousand men whose incomes are but a thousand dollars a year. Does he do it? Or does he hire others to render the service while he takes the profits? But at any rate he is a real financial success.

Determining successful accomplishment minus the excessive income, let us see what can be developed thru lines of useful service for the benefit of the individual and those with whom he comes into contact.

As an illustration, take a boy who starts to learn the printing trade. After he has passed through the "devil" experience of the office, he goes on the case doing hand composition. He learns spelling, grammar, sentence construction, and acquires a general knowledge of the various activities of the community.

After a period of typesetting he arrives at the point where he sets a clean proof. He is systematic in his spacing, so that his galleys lock up true in the forms, and correcting the proofs is almost unnecessary as a result of his accuracy. It soon becomes evident that such a boy is qualified to fill a position of greater responsibility and for such a boy there is always an opportunity open for successful advancement.

We recall one to whom opportunity came in the form of a correspondence course in shorthand. When he had finished the course he had a very complete knowledge of shorthand but needed the finishing of personal contact with an instructor. Opportunity again came to him, this time thru a Buisness College.

His correspondence course, which had been given him by his employer as a result of his splendid progress on the type case, stood him in a position where his advancement at the Business College was almost phenomenal. When he had reached the end of his first year, he had gained such a thorough and complete knowledge of stenography—shorthand and typing—he was offered a position as instructor in this department, a position he is filling with especial credit to himself and the institution he is connected with.

He wanted to give his erstwhile printer employer credit for all he had accomlisht, but this was not true. It was true that this employer had helped him find the opportunity but the successful accomplishment of the young man was entirely due to the fact that he had it in him and was ready to grab the opportunity of education, the polish needed to make him a highly finished product in the line to which he was devoted.

While we regard him as phenomenal success, the financial success, like that of the majority of teachers, is not worth considering. It is, however, enough so that the personal needs of himself and family are provided for in a manner to enable them to escape actual poverty. But his actual success during the last twenty years may be counted far more valuable to humanity than that of the $5,000,000 income man, because he has started hundreds of boys and girls—young men and young women—on the road to successful careers as a result of his wonderful ability to impart the knowledge he possesses to others.

We could cite several other equally gratifying successes whose start was made in that printing office—reportorial, machinist operator of the Linotype, artistic job printing, business office management—for it was the delight of that printer employer to help young people to get a start in life along lines to which they were especially adapted.

To him successful accomplishment simply meant the attainment of a proposed object, the proposed object in in these cases being the development of the natural ability of the individuals in a manner to qualify them for their part in life's activities.

Though unadvertised, those who have devoted a part of their lives to helping others to attain well merited success, to do these things from pure love of doing them may be counted a success well worth while.

A school's accomplishment in the same direction may be considered the highest possible attainment of a community—so much to be desired that every citizen is a school promoter first, last and all the time.

EXCITEMENT'S INFLUENCE

It takes a fire to discover what one will do in times of great excitement.

After the fire last Thursday at the Lillie residence, Mrs. Lillie when asked what treasures she choose to save first, was loath to confess that she grabbed up a rustic fern basket and her coat and carried to safety and returned to help get the bedding, clothing and other necessities.

Grandma Booth in thier recent fire put the clean clothes just fresh from the line, in the coal or wood box in her excitement.

The fire at the Lillie residence caught in the attic and had done considerable damage to roof, rafters and ceiling before discovered and before it could be put out.

Mr. Lillie and Mr. Gardner who makes his home at Mr. and Mrs. Lillie's were seven miles up Bear Creek that afternoon.

Mr. Ralston called on Mr. Cowan who is an invalid and lives at the Lillie home; upon leaving he discovered the ceiling of the room was on fire. Immediately he turned in the alarm and the fire company and the citizens of Boulder Creek hastened to the assistance of Mrs. Lillie and thus saved the home.

Uncle Amos an old civil war veteran also helped give the alarm by calling "fire! fire!" The fire hose broke, but was mended and got in efficient work; so many thanks are due the fire department and others who assisted.

The house was insured by Mr. Rodgers Ins. Co. and the satisfactory response of the Company is commendable.

IMPROVEMENT CLUB MEETS

March 21 being the regular Get-to-Gether of the Club, the meeting was held in Foresters Hall. There were 78 in attendance, the largest meeting yet in the Club's history. The business meeting was cut as short as possible to enable the program to proceed.

The program included:--

Piano duet by June and Betty Williams; Reading, Miss Harris; Violin selections by Henry Hartman, accompanied by Prof. Colburn.

We enjoy these programs immesely and usually call for encores which are always graciously rendered, but owing to the fact that we have not had the pleasure of hearing our popular musician, Mr. Hartman for a long time we tried to keep him responding to encores indefinitely.

He graciously gave us several numbers but in self-defense had to finally end our enjoyment. He said that Boulder Creekers surely knew good music and so he appreciated our applause, and while we took the remark as intended, we feel we do know good music and that is why we appreciated his playing.

It seems good to have him with us again even though we have to lose him for awhile again. We are proud to have a star that has arrived among us.

Mr. Sweeney opened his hall for the the benefit of the younger people who preferred dancing to cards and then at 9.30 we served home made doughnuts and coffee.

We are preparing already for our next Get-to-Gether and want you to begin to prepare to be there. We promise something a little different and unusual. These meetings are a melting pot for the town in which we can forget all personal differences and be one big family for the night. We welcome all and also any suggestion you can make that will help to make them different and interesting.

We desire that you shall take a personal interest in these meetings as well as become one us in the regular meetings.

We thank all who were present for their spirit of enjoyment and cordiality and assure you that we aim to make these meetings so pleasant that we will soon be crowded for room.

Keep your eyes on the Bulletin Board at the postoffice for important notices.

FIRE AT MIDDLETON'S VILLA

MENUS OF TOWN AND FARM

Statistics Supplied by Department of Agriculture Reveal Rural Conditions Notably Satisfactory.

"How are the folks on the farm doing?" is a question that is answered with a "Very well, thank you," by the Department of Agriculture at Washington. Looking into the average American farm method of living, the department finds that the farmers are as generously supplied with meat as any other class of people, observes
Gus Karger in the Cincinnati Times-Star. Strangely enough, they don't use eggs as abundantly as the folks elsewhere, but they use more milk, even where there are fewer than the average number of children.

Except in Southern states, where "quick" breads are often preferred, wheat bread is the staple. A relatively large proportion of starchy vegetables is consumed and a relatively small quantity of the green and succulent kinds, in spite of the fact that farm families have the best opportunities for growing vegetables at home.
The studies of the home economics division of the Department of Agriculture "bear out the general impression," the report states, that on the average the farmers' families have an abundant diet, with enough different kinds of food to insure good health.
Whether the food is well cooked and attractively served the studies do not show. The fact that almost twice as much cooking fat was used by the farm families as by the general average indicates that farm housewives are inclined to cook too many foods by frying. The only recommendation is that it would be well for the farmers to use more eggs, more coarse cereals, and a greater variety of vegetables and fruits, especially more green vegetables.

between the hours of 1 and 5 p.m.

PRETTY GOOD REASON

I do not spend what others earn
On meaningless display;
Extravagance I sternly spurn,
I hoard my cash away.
By smoking fifty cent cigars
I don't impair my liver,
I do not use expensive cars,
Nor even own a flivver.

I seldom see a Broadway show—
The prices are too steep;
The moving pictures may be low,
But they are also cheap.
With any form of bootleg booze
I do not numb my senses.
The only drinks I ever use
The soda man dispenses.

I do not pay a fortune for
My shirts or my cravats,
I always hunt a bargain store
When I'm in need of hats.
I never wear imported boots
Or hand-stitched English collars,
My winter and my summer suits
I buy for twenty dollars.

In closing I will frankly state
I do not live this way
Because of any heartfelt hate
For frivolous display.
The cash I keep no solace brings,
That isn't why I hoard it;
I simply do not do these things
Because I can't afford it.

IMPROVEMENT CLUB HAS A BUSY SESSION

The midnight hour was at hand with the final adjournment of the meeting of the Ben Lomond Improvement Club Tuesday evening. It had been twice adjourned and about 75 people were present.

The business meeting was called to order by the president A. H. Townsend at 8:15 and the secretary, C. A. Bradshaw was instructed to write Mr. Sinnott regarding stone and gravel promised for the finishing of the highway through town.

The young people reported that little interest had been expressed in the tennis court so it was ordered taken down and the wire stored for use as may be directed later.

Part of the fence material was on the ground and it is proposed to have a clean-up day, Saturday April 8th, and complete the fence at the same time.

Mr. Bartlett was appointed a committee to have signs painted for the entrance into town from each direction one on Dickinson bridge and the other by Doe's Loch Lomond.

Mrs. Will Paradis was appointed as chairman of the refreshment committee for clean-up day and is to choose her own aids—men and women.

The bath house committee is to report at next meeting. Mrs. Hammond's expressed wish that the Club house had a kitchen for the preparation of foods caused Mr. Brooks to say that he had been waiting for the Club to express a need of this kind and he assured the club it would be forthcoming in the near future.

At the close of the business meeting Mrs. Bartlett, in the absence of Miss Mann who had charge of the entertainment, attended to the program which was decidedly interesting.

There was community singing by the Club members: piano solo, Miss Carrie Kenville; vocal solo, Miss Margaret Noble; Solo and chorus, Mr. Jas. Leask and the Club; reading, Mr. McGowan; piano solo, Opera Martha, Mrs. Bartlett.

Then came an old fashioned spelling match which was followed by refreshments of cookies and cocoa and home soon after.

BITTER-SWEET

I've struggled with him many years
To make him wash his hands,
To clean his teeth and nails and ears
Have been hard-worked commands.

And though I've labored long and much

It's just of late I've seen
That mothers lack the magic touch
To make a boy wash clean.

These days he lives before the glass,
His neckties lead the fad,
His polished teeth would safely pass
For someone's dental ad.

His hair is sleek, his nail tips shine,
He takes my heart by storm
All told, that careless boy of mine
Is quite the mold of form.

Somehow the fingers of dull pain
Around my heart-strings curl;
He'll never be all mine again—
My boy has got a girl!
